

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a fructosylamine oxidase which is obtainable by culturing Fusarium proliferatum, and purifying two 5 types of fructosylamine oxidase (FAO) with different substrate specificities from the culture, and which is useful in the measurement of amadori compounds.